Sharon, Marc & Gary on a hike in Yosemite.
We're on the way to Taft Point, to a place called The Fissures.

Arriving at The Fissures, we find ourselves at a series of sheer cliffs and crevices, with a drop of over 4,000 feet to the floor of Yosemite valley.

Marc peers over the edge for a closer look.

Here's a great look at El Capitan from Taft Point.

The Taft Point overlook is at an elevation of just over 7,500 feet.
